IS THE SOLE OF HONOR. For sale by

James Quayle & Co

On the first Monday in January at but what Pres. Parkinson will make an efficient officer, as that has been his record in the past in all offices held by him, which have been many. We un-derstand that he will be assisted by George Hayball as deputy for the time being. This young man is deserving of praise for his gentlemanly conduct in the past, and we feel assured this same attitude will be continued by him, notwithstanding the political complexion in the chief of office has been changed. Regarding the outgoing treasurer S. W. Hendricks we must say he too has been a perfect gentleman, obliging and kind and a thorough efficient officer.

The election contest case occupied the time in Judge Hart's court today. Several witnesses were examined as to their right to vote. The case was continued until tomorrow. A prominent democrat working in the court house and who is very active in the contest case stated this evening that "the contest is a good thing and will result in good to the county. When the ballots are re-counted they will show many errors on account of the incompetency of the judges of election." This is a pretty hard fling at the county commissioners who appointed the judges and at the judges themselves. Another thing - how does this democrat know that there will be errors found when the ballots are re-counted?-when they were securely sealed by the judges of election and are supposed to be still in that

Form New Resolutions

At the beginning of all new years as they come, some people select this time for the forming of new resolutions. While it is in order each day of the year to make changes in our overy-day life, that will have a good tendency therein, New Years day seems to be the choice of all days in commencing to lay aside some habits that are objectionable and forming new ones that will be elevating in the character. There are not many of us but what can improve in some respects if one would feel inclined that way. As the old year is passing away would it not be well to let some of our habits pass with it; and on the dawn-Oregon Short Line R. R. ing of 1903 let it be a new epoch in our lives in some respects. Reflections along these lines can be profitably entertained among all ages and classes. It is not necessary to enumerate all the points that can be improved upon. Let each Individual closely examine himself and wherein that judgment and light, which onr Creator has endowed them with, tell them that they are not lixing up to the standard, resolve within themselves to improve. By so doing gain strength to bring into requisition the principal of self denial, thus forming and building up strong characters. By always yielding and never denying ourselves we form weak characters and so travel through life's journey without accomplishing the good we otherwise might have done. No one has ever made himself prominent in the world who has ignored the principles of self denial. After the first denial is made, the second is easier and so along these lines until a person can subjugate, his appetites, temper, and all that pertains to his make-up in life. We call the attention of the young, especially, to this writing. Scan yourselves closely; be determined to resist and overcome any evil habits that you may have acquired. Do not for a moment hesitate -- say "I will be some time in the future" for longer you delay the harder it will be. Therefore, remember and act upon the simple word "now."

Kick From Richmond.

Richmond Dec. 26, 1902. EDITOR REPUBLICAN: I see through different papers that the Democrats of this county are going to contest the election of J. N. Larsen as Connty Clerk and C. L. Anderson as Commissioner. I was led to believe at first hearing of it that it was mere talk: but now that it appears that they are in earnest, I wish to say that, in my mind, it is nothing short of a prearranged affair to steal these two offices. I am informed that the tally sheets and the ballots have been in the exclusive possession of the County Clerk and other officials at the Court house; I do not pretend to say illegally, but I do say this is a poor law where one of the contestants in office is made the custodian of the ballots and tally sheets. The readers can draw their own conclusions as to what might be done and as to what might not be done. Further, this is indeed a sad plight in which to place their judges of election; for let it be remembered that in all precincts the Democrats had two and the Republicans one judge. So if there have been errors finish. It is hard for the Democrats majority vote. to be convinced that they are beaten
